

From the Secret Garden by Frances Hodgson Burnett

Put in the missing word from the list. Each word can only be used once.

"If you don't want people to see you," she began, "do you want me to go away?"
 He still held the fold of her _____ and he gave it a little pull.
 "No," he said. "I should be sure you were a _____ if you went. If you are real, sit down on that big _____ and talk. I want to _____ about you".
 Mary put down her _____ on the table near the bed and sat down on the cushioned stool. She did not want to go away at all. She wanted to stay in the _____, hidden-away room and talk to the mysterious boy.
 "What do you want me to tell you?" she said He wanted to know how long she had been at Misselthwaite; he wanted to know which _____ her room was on; he wanted to know what she had been doing; if she disliked the moor as he disliked it; where she had lived before she came to _____. She answered all these _____ and many more, and he lay back on his _____ and listened. He made her tell him a great deal about _____ and about her voyage across the ocean. She found out that because he had been an _____ he had not learned things as other children had. One of his _____ had taught him to _____ when he was quite little and he was always reading and looking at _____ in splendid books.
